	30% of clinical visits have electronic health info. available when and where needed	50%

*Same goal used for testing new models and bringing proven models to scale Exact measure still under discussion

Delivery System Reform

- In three words, the vision for improving health delivery is about better, smarter, healthier.
- If we find better ways to deliver care, pay providers, and distribute information, we can receive better care, spend our dollars more wisely, and have healthier communities, a healthier economy, and a healthier country.
- To drive progress on the way care is provided, the focus is on:
 - Improving the coordination and integration of health care.
 - Engaging patients more deeply in decision-making.
 - Improving the health of patients – with a priority on prevention and wellness.
- To improve the ways providers are paid, the goal is to reward value and care coordination – rather than volume and care duplication. We want to pay providers for what works, whether it's something as complex as preventing or treating disease, or something as straightforward as making sure a patient has more than one way to communicate with the team of clinicians taking care of them.
- To improve the way information is distributed, the goal is to create more transparency on cost and quality information, to bring electronic health information to more places, and to bring the most recent scientific evidence to the point of care so we can bolster clinical decision-making.
- To move these goals forward, HHS is identifying grant and rulemaking opportunities within Medicare and Medicaid and finding ways to use them appropriately to improve the quality of care that beneficiaries receive while spending dollars more wisely. Medicare and Medicaid are the two largest health insurance plans in the world. Together they cover roughly 1 in 3 Americans.
- HHS understands that it's the Department's role and responsibility to lead ... and they will.
- But HHS can't do it alone. Patients, physicians, government, and business all stand to benefit if we get this right, and this shared purpose calls out for deeper partnership.
- So work will continue across sectors and across the aisle for the goals of better care, smarter spending, and healthier people.
