Kate Hill, RN — Incumbent

Kate is the VP of Clinical Services with The Compliance Team, one of the two deeming entities in the United States. She spearheaded TCT's Rural Health Clinic Accreditation program. She has served on the NARHC Board of Directors for the past 4 years.

Serving on the NARHC board previously has simply whetted her appetite for additional service. To walk alongside a board that constantly strives to do whatever it can to improve the quality of service in Rural Health Clinics has been a real pleasure. She was and continues to be very involved in planning content for NARHC's educational offerings including the Certified RHC Professional (CRHCP) and the Introduction to RHCs, a new course being rolled out in June to NARHC members.

Kate is a graduate of Albert Einstein Med. Center School of Nursing in Philadelphia, PA. As an Army Nurse, she served in Viet Nam (27th Surgical Hospital in Chu Lai) where she was awarded the Bronze Star for meritorious service. Her years of business & nursing experience combined well to contribute meaningfully to the NARHC board. She feels fortunate to have been able to speak at numerous state and national meetings about RHC compliance countrywide which gave her the opportunity to learn firsthand the diverse regional issues clinics are facing. She would very much appreciate your support to serve for the next term on the NARHC Board of Directors.

Barry's work ethic, along with 30 years of diverse healthcare experience has given him the business understanding & industry knowledge to build a clinically integrated, multi-tiered, patient-centered primary care system using the RHC model. The practice includes Family Medicine, Pediatrics, OB/GYN, Behavioral Health, Dentistry, Diabetes Center, Pharmacy & other ancillary services all in one location. Additionally, he has developed unique relationships with various partners to meet the needs of the patients PCCEK serves. Working with the local hospital, U of KY, & a regional Community Mental Health Center he has developed innovative approaches to issues faced by the PCCEK patient population. Barry adapts to an ever-changing healthcare environment & makes needed investments to serve the patients & meet needs. He graduated from U of KY with a B.S. in Accounting & a Masters' of Hlth Administration.

Barry currently serves as Chair of KY Primary Care Assn (KPCA) & has been a board member or committee member for 20+ years. In addition to his duties as Chair he currently sits on the org's Executive Committee, IPA Committee & KY Medicaid Primary Care Technical Advisory Committee. He is also a member of the KPCA ACO Board of Directors & was involved in the creation of this RHC/FQHC driven organization. Some of his community service includes Chair of KY Mountain Hlth Alliance, Past President of the Hazard Rotary Club & a Board of Regents for the KY Community & Technical College System.

Denise Schentrup, DNP, APRN-BC

Denise serves as the Associate Dean for Clinical Affairs at University of Florida College of Nursing and the Clinic Director of Archer Family Health Care, the only nurse-led federally designated RHC within the University of Florida Health system. This unique practice provides family & behavioral health services to its rural residents. The practice in Archer, FL serves Alachua & surrounding rural counties. She practices as an advanced practice registered nurse two days per week. She precepts students in this rural practice, giving them a glimpse into the challenges in this setting. Her combined role as a clinician & administrator gives her the opportunity to view the practice from a wide lens and make decisions that will ensure the sustainability of the practice. Under her leadership at Archer Family Health Care, she has been successful in obtaining Meaningful Use dollars, implementing an interprofessional care team, & obtaining Level 2 certification as a PCMH. She was awarded funding from various agencies to support improving access to quality health care for rural residents.

Her vision as a NARHC member is to give a voice to rural health and become involved in changing legislation to improve access to care. She is also excited about increasing the number of rural practices becoming members within NARHC and utilizing its valuable resources to ensure sustainability. As a practicing clinician, she would like to share her experiences with other board members to ensure that there is a clear understanding of the demands of providing care to this vulnerable population. She would be honored to represent Florida's rural providers and population.

Denise is a graduate of University of Florida College of Nursing in Gainesville, FL and Rush University, Chicago, IL. She began her career as an RN in the Malcom Randal VA Hospital. After obtaining her graduate degree, she began practicing as a family NP in a rural clinic in Lake Butler, FL. This sparked her interest in rural health. From there, she became faculty at University of Florida College of Nursing & practiced at another rural health clinic in Grandin, FL. After several years, she transitioned to Archer Family Health Care, eventually becoming the administrator over this rural practice. She is a strong proponent of increasing health care access to rural residents & teaching APRN students the specialty of rural health. Additionally, she understands the importance of APRNs & the value they bring to rural areas. Outside of her role at University of Florida, she is the VP of the Rural Health Partnership. She is a member of the community advisory board for the Clinical & Translational Science Institute at the UF Health Science Center. She is an alumnus of the Duke-Johnson & Johnson Nurse Leadership Program & was recently awarded the 2019 NP State Award for Excellence from the American Association of Nurse Practitioners.
